Welcome! We are so pleased you will join us in the fall. Please see below a few readings to get you going on one of your core papers, “Religion and Religions”. Starred texts are key, and will constitute part of your reading once you begin your studies in earnest in October.

A few additional general texts in theology are also listed at the bottom of the page.

Religion and Religions

Barrett, Justin. 2004. Why Would Anyone Believe in God? Walnut Creek, Calif.: AltaMira Press.
Other editions of the same texts are entirely acceptable.

A couple of additional suggestions, by way of more general introduction to a university course in Theology and Religion, are as follows:

An excellent introduction to the Bible and its influence on culture is:
Two helpful introductions to Christian Doctrine are provided by:

See you in October!

SL Hausner
Fellow and Tutor in Religion, St. Peter’s College, Oxford

Revised August 2016